MINAS TIRITH™ – CITY OF KINGS

The role of Minas Tirith™ in the conclusive battle for Middle-earth™ sometimes overshadows its glorious, thousand-year-old history. When Pippin and Gandalf™ first arrive, the once so noble realm has fallen into dire disrepair under the stewardship of the fatalistic Denethor™. Driven by an impending sense of doom and self-pity, he gorges himself on grotesque meals rather than fulfilling his duties.

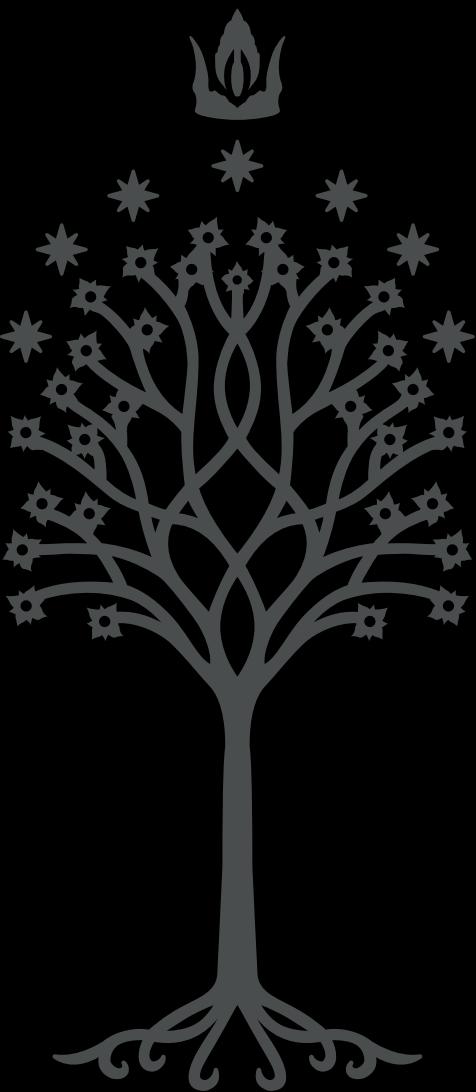

Even so, neither the Nazgûl™ nor Sauron™ himself can diminish its architectural splendour. Solidly built into the White Mountains, Minas Tirith soars, with seven concentric levels of stone, crowned by the Tower of Ecthelion, a 300-foot beacon whose pinnacle reaches 1,000 feet above the plain. After the War of the Ring ends, Minas Tirith once again stands as a symbol of hope and prosperity.

“Here, the hammer stroke
will fall hardest.”

- Gandalf

FROM THE LEGO® ICONS DESIGN TEAM

It's always with a sense of awe that we start working on models based on popular themes – including the vast realms in The Lord of the Rings™ film trilogy. Inspired by the 'bigature' model created for The Return of the King™, we stayed close to the movie version's storytelling and the structural details. We created a hybrid-scale model using a forced perspective building technique.

The outer wall is built for LEGO® minifigures to interact with, while the six upper walls are built progressively smaller for dramatic effect. You can place the characters into the iconic scenes both on the top layer and inside. However you display it, there are a myriad of details everywhere, and you can remove sections of the model for even more versatile display options. You're about to pass into the Realm of Gondor™. The board is set. The pieces are moving. Let the building adventure begin!

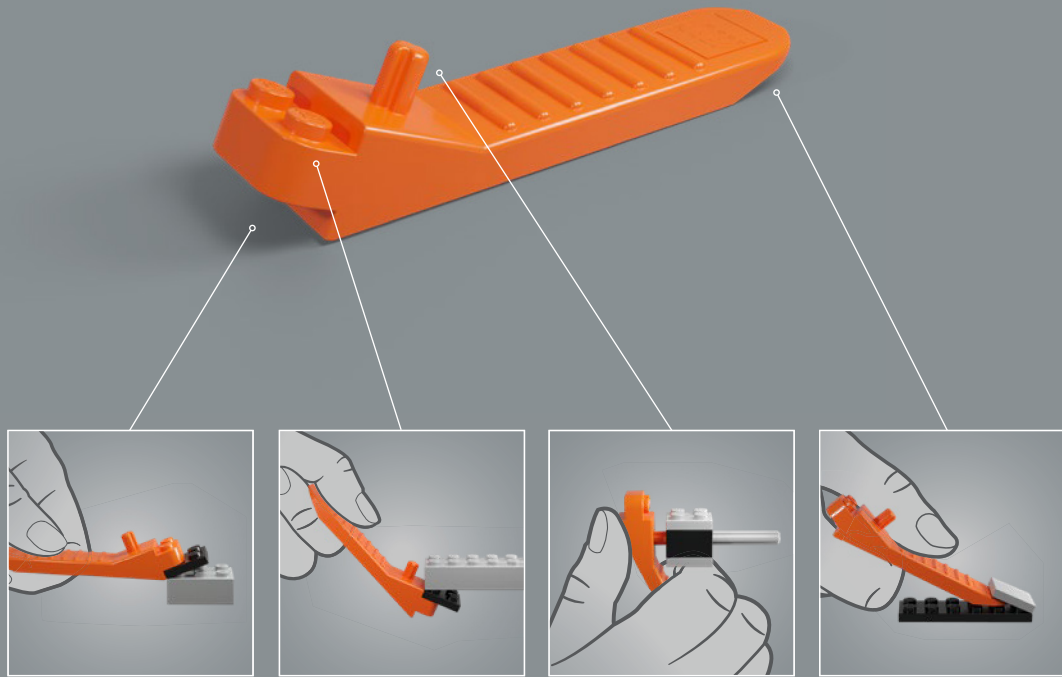

THE GATES OF MINAS TIRITH™

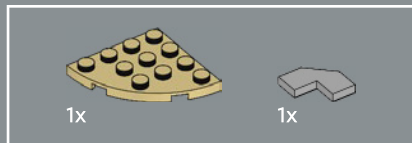

The Great Gate on the first wall faces east and serves as the city's only gateway. It opens into a paved courtyard, the meeting point of the North-way, South Road and the route to Osgiliath. Each of the seven levels is protected by its own wall and gate. These gates are placed at angles to one another, creating a zigzagging path that leads upwards through the city rather than a straight ascent – a hallmark of Minas Tirith's defensive architecture. In this model, the gate can be detached so newly designed minifigure characters of Gandalf™, Pippin and Shadowfax can make a dramatic entrance through the gate and alert Denethor™ of Sauron's threat.
